-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --

Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☒ Responsive to communication(s) filed on 27 June 2006.
- 2a) ☐ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☒ This action is non-final.
- 3) ☐ Since this application is in condition for allowance except for formal matters, prosecution as to the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 1935 C.D. 11, 453 O.G. 213.

The indicated allowability of claims 1-11 is withdrawn in view of the newly discovered reference(s) to LEE (7,075,587). Rejections based on the newly cited reference(s) follow.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-5, 9-10, 12-15, 17-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by LEE (7,075,587).

As per claim 1, Lee teaches the claimed “image display apparatus” comprising:

“means for receiving a video stream representing a series of consecutive input images, with the series of consecutive input images comprising a first image and a second image” (Lee, column 3, lines 44-48); and

“a display device for displaying a series of consecutive output images which are based on the series of consecutive input images, wherein the image display apparatus is arranged to split the consecutive input images into respective first parts and respective second parts” (Lee, column 3, lines 50-63; column 7, lines 5-20); and

corresponding to the second part of the second input image" (Lee, column 3, lines 65-67); the image display apparatus further comprising: "a character analyzer designed to search for textual information in the first parts; and a comparing unit for comparing parts of the textual information with a predetermined string of characters" (Lee, the OCR program recognizes the textual information and compare it to the patterns of alphanumeric characters; column 7, lines 60-64; in equivalence to Applicant's Textual Recognition; paragraph [0023] ).

Claim 2 adds into claim 1 "the first parts correspond to respective portions of a banner" (Lee, column 4, line 52 to column 5, line 5; the auxiliary information; column 8, lines 42-62).

Claim 3 adds into claim 1 "the first parts correspond to a subtitle" (Lee, column 5, lines 38-46).

Claim 4 adds into claim 1 "user interface means to provide location information of the first parts to control splitting of the images of the series of consecutive input images" (Lee, the arrangement of the positions of the display units are controllable by user; for examples in figure 21; column 7, lines 5-20; also figure 27).

Claim 5 adds into claim 4 “a first memory device for storage of the location information” (Lee, the locations of the data which are displayed on two distinct devices 370 and 371; figure 27)

As per claim 9, Lee teaches the claimed “method of displaying a series of consecutive output images which are based on a series of consecutive input images, with the series of consecutive input images comprising a first image and a second image” comprising the steps of:

“means for receiving a video stream representing a series of consecutive input images, with the series of consecutive input images comprising a first image and a second image” (Lee, column 3, lines 44-48); and

“splitting the consecutive input images into respective first parts and respective second parts” (Lee, column 3, lines 50-63; column 7, lines 5-20); and “displaying a first one of the output images comprising a first block of pixels corresponding to the first part of the first input image and a second block of pixels corresponding to the second part of the second input image” (Lee, column 3, lines 65-67); the image display apparatus further comprising: “searching for textual information in the first parts; and comparing parts of the textual information with a predetermined string of characters” (Lee, the OCR program recognizes the textual information and compare it to the patterns of alphanumeric characters; column 7, lines 60-64; in equivalence to Applicant’s Textual Recognition; paragraph [0023] ).

Claim 10 adds into claim 9 "TV comprising the image display apparatus according to Claim I" (Lee, column 3, lines 29-31).

As per claim 12, Lee teaches the claimed "display apparatus" comprising:
"an input configured to receive input images having corresponding first input parts and second input parts" (Lee, column 3, lines 44-48); and
"a display device configured to display output images having said corresponding first input parts and output parts" (Lee, column 3, lines 50-63);
"wherein a predetermined number of said output images have said output parts corresponding to one second input part of said second input parts so that said one second input part is constantly displayed over said predetermined number of said output images" (Lee, column 6, line 50 to column 7, line 4; the markers defines the predetermined number of image frames for displaying the text data).

Claim 13 adds into claim 12 "said corresponding first input parts and said output parts of said output images are separated by a separator, said separator being controllable by a user" (Lee, the arrangement of the positions of the display units are controllable by user; for examples in figure 21; column 7, lines 5-20; also figure 27).

Claim 14 adds into claim 12 "said corresponding first input parts and said output parts of said output images are separated by a separator, said separator being a line" (Lee, figure 21)

Claim 14 adds into claim 12 "said corresponding first input parts and said output parts of said output images are separated by a separator, said separator being a box" (Lee, figure 27)

Claim 17 adds into claim 12 "a character analyzer designed to search for textual information in the first parts; and a comparing unit for comparing parts of the textual information with a predetermined string of characters" (Lee, the OCR program recognizes the textual information and compare it to the patterns of alphanumeric characters; column 7, lines 60-64; in equivalence to Applicant's Textual Recognition; paragraph [0023]).

Claim 18 adds into claim 12 "said second input parts include a banner" (Lee, column 4, line 52 to column 5, line 5; the auxiliary information; column 8, lines 42-62).

Claim 19 adds into claim 12 "said second input parts include a subtitle" (Lee, column 5, lines 38-46).

Claim 16 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 6,7, and 11 are allowed.
